

Political Organizing Jobs Available

Grassroots Campaigns is a nationwide political organizing firm. We work with progressive candidates and advocacy groups (like the ACLU and Planned Parenthood) to help increase the average person's knowledge of and investment in key progressive issues like civil rights and environmental protection. We also work to enact change at a global and local level by registering and turning out voters in swing states and important districts.

Right now, we're interviewing graduating seniors to join our teams as Assistant Canvass Directors.

This is a full-time, paid, entry-level position. This is a challenging job; if you work with us you'll be expected to take on a lot of responsibility right away, including managing staff and helping to launch new campaigns.

We're looking for smart, driven, passionate, and self-directed students to fill these roles for campaigns across the country, especially in major swing states.

If you're fed up with our political situation, sick of corruption, and ready to do something about it, you're not alone. We want you on our team.

Fill out an interest form (<https://forms.gle/BfUTR9dMVjKEkayB7>) and we'll be in touch.
